

HR Analytics – M1 Projects – B2

Project 1

You are the HR manager of XYZ limited. The CEO of your company has raised concerns about the low growth rate of the company performance. He is worried about the poor employee performance and less productivity. He seems to believe that the employees are not performing well which is now hampering company's revenue.

The CEO's concern made you conduct a survey to measure employee satisfaction. Also, upon discussion with some employees, you noticed that they are facing issues while working together in teams.

Even the managers have started complaining about employees not working effectively in teams. The managers have expressed concerns about performance going down due to this issue.

1. You decide to come up with a detailed action plan to deal with the issue of low company performance.
2. You want to find out whether the employee satisfaction survey will lead to some conclusion.
3. Improper team functioning has become a key issue. Manager feels that good team players are performing better. To evaluate this, one of the team members has done a quick survey of 30 people. A sheet has been attached for the same.

Project 2

You are HR manager of XYZ Limited. You want to hire new employees for the coming year and this year the CEO wants to have a major workforce expansion drive. As part of campus hiring, you go to Tier 1 and Tier 2 colleges.

In the recent meeting, different views on hiring came up. The CEO wanted more people to come from campus hiring while the sales head wanted people with more experience. This puts you under pressure to handle the situation and approach it more systematically.

So, you decided to go through the past data of recruitment and locate the loop holes.

1. You first want to decide that what should be the right mix of campus Vs lateral hiring on the basis of employee performance.
2. To improve the hiring process, you want to find out what kind of people to target as part of campus hiring. You want to be sure about whom to target and what to target.
3. As part of lateral hiring, you want to check what kind of lateral hires have performed well in the past. On the basis of which you want to make further lateral hires.

THANK YOU

